

Volume 1, Issue 1, May 2003

The Chief has a son ...

Who could forget the delivery of Toaster's four beautiful pups ... televised on That's My Baby! Well, Toaster is now a grandmama! The hairless male, Señor Jéfe, which means "Chief" has now had a pup of his own!

Jéfe sired a litter with a hairless female and one coated male survived. He is eight-weeks-old on May 25 and is ready for placement. This puppy is adorable and will make a great companion and service dog for someone. If you or someone you know and love is in a position to adopt Jéfe Jr., contact Nancy Gordon at nancy@animalangelhealers.org

Pink is now a second time oscar winnner!

Toaster's hairless female pup, Señorita La Rosita -- also known as Pink -- is also busy making a name for herself!

She not only debuted on Animal Planet as Toaster's Progeny, but she now has her own cameo role on the learning channel's show Urban Legends. It will air May 27 at 9am and noon eastern standard time! Be sure to set your VCRs and tune in! It's a WILD story!!!

Two more Xolos find a home!

On May 3, Nancy Gordon and a coated male named PoohBear met Pooh's new mommy at the San Diego Airport. Julaine Stark, from Burlington, Iowa had flown in as fast as she could to meet her new service dog.

She had contacted Nancy after the January airing of That's My Baby! inquiring if a Xolo would help with her chronic neck pain, caused by permanent nerve damage and arthritis. After a whirlwind 2 days of paperwork and training with Nancy, Pooh and Julaine were preparing to return to the midwest, when a call came from the eastcoast. A woman in Baltimore, MD was ready to adopt a hairless male that Nancy had available for placement, but the difficulty would be in getting the pup all the way from San Diego to the East Coast.

A crazy scheme was hatched ... since Julaine was flying to Chicago with one dog, why not send her with both dogs, and when she got to Chicago just take another flight to Baltimore and drop off the other dog? Sounds simple, right? Well, suffice it to say that Nancy now has a lot more material for her book on what NOT to do when traveling with a service dog!

Monty ... The hairless male was named Monteczuma, or Monty for short, by his new mama. She had been researching Xolos and had decided what she wanted. Amazingly, Monty turned out to be exactly what "the doctor ordered!" He was everything she had been looking for, and they are developing a loving working relationship with each other. Monty is negotiating territorial rights with Pavi, the other canine occupant of the house, but negotiations are in progress, and a cease-fire is just around the corner. (We hope!!!)

Pooh ... Once they actually made it home, Julaine's husband and four kids were excited to welcome Pooh into the pack. He is turning out to be quite a character, and everyone who meets him seems to fall in love with him, wanting to take him home! Julaine reports that things are going exceptionally well, considering that Pooh has recently developed a taste for toilet paper and Barbie doll hair (not at the same time, of course). His favorite trick is to get a loose roll and push it down the hall with his nose, shredding it as it unrolls.

(Insider stock tip: Buy Charmin!)

A Happy Ending ...

The end result of this adventure was that two more dogs were placed in positions of service, two more chronic pain sufferers have new hope of relief, and Animal Angel Healers continues to evolve into a unique resource for the chronic pain community.

Keep checking our website www.angelanimalhealers.org for updated information and the GRAND OPENING of Animal Angel Healers ..! Inc.'s line of specialty greeting cards.